ABOUT EFL UNIVERSITY

The English and Foreign Languages University (formerly the Central Institute of English and Foreign Languages) was created by an Act of Parliament and came into being on 03 August 2007. The EFL University continues to build upon the achievements of the CIEFL, and expand its activities on the national and global stages. Its mandate is to advance and disseminate, “instructional, research, and extension facilities in the teaching of English and Foreign Languages and Literatures in India” as well as “to take appropriate measures for inter-disciplinary studies and research in Literary and Cultural Studies, and to develop critical inter-cultural understanding of civilizations” (as mentioned in the Act).

The EFL University has three campuses: the main campus is in Hyderabad, while the other two are in Lucknow and Shillong. The objectives of the University are to bring quality education in the disciplines and sub-disciplines of English and foreign languages within the reach of all Indians. The objectives of the University, as stated in the Act (2006) (No.7 of 2007) are:

- to disseminate and advance knowledge by providing instructional, research, and extension facilities in the teaching of English and foreign languages and literature in India;
- to train language teachers in methods and approaches appropriate to the Indian context;
- to provide expertise in language and teacher education to foreign professionals;
- to evolve indigenous ways of testing language proficiency;
- to make provisions for innovative teaching-learning materials in both print and electronic media;
- to take appropriate measures for inter-disciplinary studies and research in literary and cultural studies; and
- to develop critical intercultural understanding of the civilizations.
VICE CHANCELLOR’S MESSAGE

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you to this University, the English and Foreign Languages University, which is the only one of its kind in South Asia. The present academic year promises to offer new opportunities for academic and personal growth.

The focus of this University has been to:

- disseminate knowledge through research and creative endeavours
- encourage critical thinking leading to the production of critical and responsible citizens
- promote inclusivity by providing equal opportunities to all
- promote diversity by admitting students from all parts of the country and abroad

At this University, teaching is a cooperative and productive exchange of ideas, thereby evolving new avenues for learning and discovery. Rightly so, students are called ‘participants’ here as they actively participate in their academic space.
We are witness to a rapid and dramatic transformation in the milieu of higher education. These have been triggered by advances in technology and by new vistas of knowledge. This has led to the crumbling of boundaries between countries as well as disciplines. The University has kept itself abreast with the innovations not by discarding the traditional ways of teaching or the traditional disciplines but by introducing the new along with the old. The mathematician and philosopher Alfred North Whitehead once said that “The art of progress is to preserve order amid change and to preserve change amid order,” and that will be the endeavour of this University.

Online courses and Open courseware (through the MOOCs SWAYAM platform) will complement the traditional classroom teaching. Inter-disciplinary research will be encouraged as the answers to many important and intriguing questions are often found by transcending the rigid boundaries of disciplines.

Apart from the quality education imparted, it is also essential to promote co-curricular and extra-curricular activities. This year we introduce a variety of fun-filled, personally empowering and socially significant activities that will fill our campus with renewed energy and excitement. This is our attempt to provide that ‘extra’ that makes extraordinary education different from ordinary learning.

We encourage you to participate in all the activities that the University has to offer and emerge a winner in all spheres of life.

Prof. E. Suresh Kumar
ABOUT OUR COURSES: HIGHLIGHTS

- Flexibility in the design and conduct of courses and examinations.
- Student-friendly teachers.
- Freedom to follow one’s own interests and experience the joy of discovery.
- No rote learning.
- Promotion of joint learning and progression on a fast track if required.
- Emphasis on academic writing, extensive/critical reading, and discussion.
- Learner-centred, modular courses.

- M.A. German
- M.A. Russian
- M.A. Spanish
M.A PROGRAMME: INTRODUCTION

Introduction

This handbook is designed to provide as much relevant information as possible about the M.A. programmes at the EFL University. It lists the array of M.A. programmes that the University offers and describes the course requirements for earning each of these degrees. It details each course curriculum and the procedures and policies that govern post-graduate students.

Students registered for the M.A. programmes are advised to familiarize themselves with the requirements and the policies governing the award of the degree.
About the M.A. programme

The EFL University offers a number of post-graduate programmes in English, Arabic, French, German, Russian, and Spanish. One reason for the popularity of these programmes over the years has been because of the modular approach we follow—what is popularly known as ‘the cafeteria system’. Students can choose from a variety of courses offered in different areas, such as literature, linguistics, and English language education and opt for a programme that best suits their goals and interests. (See the next section for Choice-Based Credit System).

Courses offered on our various programmes adopt a variety of teaching styles that are intense and at the same time engaging. Courses are offered as seminars, tutorials, presentations, lectures, and lab-based (held in language labs and digital labs).
The UGC Document (http://collegesat.du.ac.in/UGC_credit_Guidelines.pdf) states:
“The Indian Higher Education Institutions (HEIs) have been moving from the conventional annual system to semester system. Currently many of the institutions have already introduced the choice-based credit system. The semester system accelerates the teaching-learning process and enables vertical and horizontal mobility in learning. The credit-based semester system provides flexibility in designing curriculum and assigning credits based on the course content and hours of teaching. The choice-based credit system provides a ‘cafeteria’ type approach in which the students can take courses of their choice, learn at their own pace, do additional courses and acquire more than the required credits, while adopting an interdisciplinary approach to learning. It is desirable that the HEIs move to CBCS and implement the grading system.”
Advantages of the Choice-Based Credit System:
(http://www.ugc.ac.in/pdfnews/4426331_Instructional-Template.pdf)

- Shift in focus from teacher-centric to student-centric education.
- Students may choose as many credits as they can cope with (without repeating all courses in a given semester if they fail in one/more courses).
- CBCS allows students to choose inter-disciplinary, intra-disciplinary courses, skill-oriented papers (even from other disciplines according to their learning needs, interests, and aptitude) and offers more flexibility to the students.
- CBCS makes education broad-based and on par with global standards. One can take credits by choosing unique combinations of courses.
- CBCS offers flexibility for students to study at different times and at different institutions to complete one course (ease of mobility of students). Credits earned at one institution can be transferred to another institution.
TYPES OF COURSES:

In any given programme, there could be three types of courses:

A. Core

B. Elective

C. Foundation

A Core Course is that which is to be compulsorily studied by a student to complete the requirement of a programme in a said discipline of study. An Elective Course may be either supportive to the discipline of study and provide an expansive scope or provide exposure to some other discipline. A Foundation Course provides the foundation for any discipline.
Elements of CBCS

- Choice Based
  - Multiple choices of programmes and courses

- Grading
  - Transformation of actual marks secured by a student in terms of letter grades

- Credit
  - Give due weightage in terms of number of Instructional Hours per week

- Semester
  - Clear cut identification of duration of teacher learner engagement

- Assessment
  - Continuous and Comprehensive Evaluation in terms of classroom attendance, Mid Term tests, assignments etc
APPLYING FOR THE M.A. PROGRAMME

The EFL University invites applications for all its regular programmes in the national dailies and on the University website between December and February every year. Postgraduate programmes follow a modular approach—popularly known as ‘the cafeteria system’. Students can choose from a variety of courses offered in different areas, such as literature, linguistics, and English Language Education and opt for a programme that best suits their goals.

Duration of the programme

Four semesters

Eligibility

A Bachelor’s degree in any discipline with 55% marks for general/OBC, 50% for SC/ST Students/Participants
ACADEMIC CALENDAR

The M.A. programme is spread over four semesters and the academic calendar is as follows:

August-November (Semesters 1 and 3)

January-April (Semesters 2 and 4)
M.A. ENGLISH (CAFETERIA SYSTEM): ENTRANCE TEST

Admission for Indian students is based on the applicant’s performance in a common online admission test conducted at various centres across India. These centres are notified every year in the advertisement. Foreign students do not have to take the admission test, but need to get a specified score in either IELTS or TOEFL. There is a common entrance test for the M.A. English programme through the cafeteria system. The duration of the entrance test is two hours. The entrance test has FOUR sections, each section testing your ability/skills in a particular area:

Section A (25 marks): Literature
Section B (25 marks): Reading Comprehension
Section C (25 marks): Organizational Ability and Writing Skills
Section D (25 marks): Verbal and Analytical Ability

Entrance to the M.A. English programme can lead to any of the following degrees at the end of the programme.
THE DIFFERENT M.A. PROGRAMMES THROUGH THE CAFETERIA SYSTEM

M.A. ENGLISH

- M.A. ENGLISH
- M.A. LINGUISTICS
- M.A. IN THE TEACHING OF ENGLISH AS A SECOND LANGUAGE
- M.A. LITERARY AND CULTURAL STUDIES
- M.A. ENGLISH LITERATURE
The degree that you are awarded at the end of the programme will depend on the courses you opt to do in the four semesters of study. For example, if you get more credits in linguistics, you will be awarded an M.A. in Linguistics.

Students can pick and choose courses they wish to do as they proceed and decide on the degree they wish to take (based on the credits they acquire) by the end of the third semester. Hence, it is truly a tailor-made programme which evolves as you progress!

To get to know more about this, it is advisable for you to follow the first steps given in the next section.

FINAL REGISTRATION
M.A. DEGREE REQUIREMENTS

- A student registered for an M.A. programme should get a minimum of 80 credits across the four semesters of study.

- A student is permitted to take a maximum of 25 credits and a minimum of 15 per semester. This would roughly translate to 3-5 courses per semester (assuming that each course is worth 5 credits).

- One should get at least 50 credits from the core areas and the remaining-30 credits from the electives that they opt for.

- A student has to inform at the beginning of the fourth semester the degree they wish to take. The Coordinator will check, guide and advise them regarding the requirements.
● A student is permitted to drop a course only if s/he fulfils all the credit requirements. Dropping of a course is permitted only up to the third semester.

● A student has the option of doing a project in the last semester of an M.A. programme in lieu of any taught course. The project will fetch the candidate 5 credits.

● A student is also permitted to register for a reading course only in the last semester of study.

Every M.A. programme lists courses in the core areas of study, called Core Courses, along with courses that are either related to the core or which introduce the student to another discipline. These are called Elective Courses. The programme Coordinator will provide, at the beginning of every semester, the list of core and electives on offer for that semester. This information will be uploaded on to the University website to enable students to register online. The following sections list the core and elective courses that are usually on offer for each of the M.A. programmes.
The M.A. English programme is designed to provide the student exposure to areas beyond the boundaries of English Literature. The addition of new areas of interest makes it different from the run of the mill kind of traditional M.A. English programmes offered by most Indian universities, and is also job-oriented.

Course Content
A student who wishes to obtain a degree in M.A. English will have to get 30 credits in Literature from the courses on offer from the 4 departments in the School of Literary Studies viz., Comparative Literature, English Literature, Indian and World Literatures, and Translation Studies and 20 credits from the following areas:

1. Language Sciences (10 credits)
2. English Language Education (10 credits) and Free credits: 30 (from any discipline)

This means that in all, a student with a general M.A. English degree from the University would have done more than 50% of the courses from the literature and language menu and at the same time be introduced to related disciplines like Cultural Studies, Film Studies, Journalism and Mass Communication, Media and Communication etc.

Please refer to the respective menus for the list of core and electives in each area.
M.A. LINGUISTICS

This programme is for students who wish to familiarize themselves with the various areas of linguistics. This programme introduces students to all areas of theoretical and applied linguistics.

Learning Outcomes

Develop a passion for language study
Develop an aptitude for analyzing the formal aspects of any language

LEVELS

Level 1

100 series Introductory courses in specialized areas (have no prerequisites)

Level 2

200 series Introductory courses in specialized areas (have prerequisites)

Level 3

300 series Mid-level courses in specialized areas

Level 4

400 series Advanced courses in specialized areas
AREAS

Courses are offered in the following broad areas:

Area 1 Phonetics
Area 2 Phonology
Area 3 Morphology
Area 4 Syntax
Area 5 Semantics
Area 6 Psycholinguistics and Language Acquisition
Area 7 Computational Linguistics: Theory
Area 8 Computational Linguistics: Applications
Area 9 Philosophy of Language, Linguistics as Cognitive Science
CODE NUMBER

The courses are given a three-digit code number, prefixed by the letter code LS, for Language Science–LS XYZ, where X=Level, Y=Area, Z=Sub-division (in general, 1-4 are theoretical and 5-9 are applied and experimental).

M.A. THESIS

Students in the fourth semester of M.A. have the option of doing a thesis (worth 5 credits) on a topic approved by the Programme Committee. Each student will be assigned a Supervisor by the Programme Committee.

OTHER COURSES

Apart from the courses listed below, new courses may be offered in any given semester with the approval of the School Committee. Only a limited selection of the courses listed below is on offer in any semester.

M.A. TEACHING OF ENGLISH AS A SECOND LANGUAGE

This programme is aimed at students who wish to pursue a course of study in the field of Teaching English as a Second Language (TESL). The programme will address issues in the theory and practice of language pedagogy, teacher development, and curriculum development, language as a medium of communication in society and in education, and the nature of learning and language learning. A student who wishes to get a degree in M.A. TESL should get at least 50 credits from the core areas and the remaining 30 from other areas.

The M.A. in English Literature is perhaps one of the most traditional and recognizable degrees in higher education, and it is one of the oldest Masters programme at the English and Foreign Languages University. The English Literature Programme here presents an exciting combination of traditional offerings and radical new pathways of enquiry that have made this degree among the most sought-after English degrees in the country. The variety of careers and intellectual trajectories that our students have pursued is a testament to the strengths and felicities of the programme. As a discipline, English is not just a Beowulf-to-Virginia-Woolf kind of literary survey enterprise. We understand it in a much broader and flatter sense as including the study of literary texts, but also of the many textualities that form the textures and contestures of our life in the discursive paradigms of the world and its many histories. So our surveys too are intensely historicised with respect to the contexts and concerns of our own times: our Shakespeare course might very well include a
Bollywood adaptation, for example, not just the Renaissance text. For more details, please go to the following url: <tiny.cc/maenglit17a>

The core requirements for M.A. English Literature

This M.A. programme in Literary and Cultural Studies aims at providing students with a firm grasp of the themes, concepts, and critical methodologies that constitute the field of Cultural Studies. Emerging in the last quarter of the twentieth century, at the cutting edge of literary and philosophical studies, history, sociology and political theory and alongside worldwide political developments (the media revolution, the new social movements, globalization), Cultural Studies engages the critical issues of our times. The major strength of Cultural Studies, and perhaps also the principal reason for its extraordinary influence, is the manner in which it combines an interest in the local, the everyday and the contemporary with rigorous theoretical analysis. It has also brought into focus a new sense of the relationship between the academy and public life, ‘high’ culture and popular culture, and theory and practice. We believe that Cultural Studies also makes available, for the first time after colonialism, tools and concepts that enable a theoretically rigorous India-centred scholarship.
The Literary and Cultural Studies (LCS) programme has three principal aims:

1. To familiarize students with the key issues and concepts which have animated public debates and policy-making in our time.

2. To introduce students to the major writers and theorists on Indian society, history and culture.

3. To equip students to find jobs as teachers, researchers, translators, consultants, and content-developers in various fields (the mass media, publishing, and administration).

Courses on offer in the LCS programme are listed under rubrics that provide a student with a broad sense of the scope of the programme. Each rubric has some core and some elective courses. Each semester two or more core courses will be offered, the rest will be elective courses.
• Students planning to opt for an M.A. English degree need to obtain at least 10 core credits from the Literary and Cultural Studies program. They can fulfil this requirement by completing any two Core LCS Courses within their four semesters of study.

• Students planning to opt for an M.A. Literary and Cultural Studies degree need to obtain at least 50 credits from four Core and six Optional LCS Courses. They may choose their overall credits as follows:

The Literary and Cultural Studies Programme is organized under four broad thematic rubrics, each including a range of Core and Elective courses, as listed below.

I. Cultural Theory—Thinkers, Concepts, Disciplines
   Core Courses:
   1. LCS 101 A Beginners Guide to Cultural Studies
   2. LCS 102 Modes of Reading Culture
   3. LCS 103 Theories of the Subject
   4. LCS 104 Introduction to Stuart Hall
   5. LCS 105 Marxist Cultural Theory
   6. LCS 106 Michel Foucault: A Introduction
   7. LCS 107 Biopolitics
8. LCS 108 Introduction to Indian Cultural History

Elective Courses:

1. LCS 121 Body, Culture and Power
2. LCS 122 Jacques Derrida: An Introduction
3. LCS 123 The Poetics of Money
4. LCS 124 Introduction to Psychoanalysis
5. LCS 125 Cultural Subjectivity
6. LCS 126 Culture of Democracy
7. LCS 127 History, Society, Economy: Readings in the Disciplines
8. LCS 128 Debating Violence
9. LCS 129 Religion, Secularism and Modernity
II. Cinema, Media and the Arts

Core Courses:
1. LCS 141 Indian Film Cultures
2. LCS 142 New Indian Cinemas
3. LCS 143 Media and the Public Domain
4. LCS 144 Culture, Modernity and Technology

Elective Courses:
1. LCS 151 Film History and Theory
2. LCS 152 Film Analysis
3. LCS 153 Cinemas of the World
4. LCS 154 Visual Culture: Theories and Practices
5. LCS 155 Literature, Aesthetics and Politics
6. LCS 156 The Fiction of India
7. LCS 157 The Indian Modern: Explorations in Thought, Art and Culture

III. Gender Studies

Core Courses:

1. LCS 161 Feminist Theory and Criticism
2. LCS 162 Gender in Contemporary India

IV. Dalit Studies

Core Courses:

1. LCS 171 Introduction to Dalit Studies
2. LCS 172 Introduction to B.R. Ambedkar
3. LCS 173 Modern Dalit Writing

Elective Courses:

1. LCS 181 Law and Caste in Modern India
2. LCS 182 Dalit Self-Narratives: Form and Politics
3. LCS 183 Dalit Studies: Critical Debates on Caste and Culture

V. Advanced Topics in Cultural Studies

Reading Courses/M.A. Dissertation

Students in the final semester of the M.A. programme may opt for a Reading Course or a dissertation in the LCS area under the guidance of a faculty member in the broad rubrics mentioned above. Both these are elective courses.
M.A. PROGRAMMES: SPECIALIZED

Apart from the general M.A. programme in English which can lead to any of the other four M.A. programmes through the cafeteria system, the University also offers some specialized M.A. programmes in the following areas (in the English division):

M.A. Journalism and Mass Communication
M.A. Computational Linguistics
M.A. Linguistics
M.A. English Literature
M.A. Comparative Literature
M.A. Literatures in English
M.A. English Language Teaching
For admission to these programmes, one needs to take a separate entrance test in each of these areas. The course content in these programmes is more defined and specialized in nature than the ones offered through the cafeteria system.
M.A. JMC
Journalism and Mass Communication (Specialized)

HAND BOOK 2017-18
M.A. JOURNALISM AND MASS COMMUNICATION

The M.A. JMC programme is dedicated to achieve high standards in Journalism and Mass Communication. Admission to this programme is through an entrance test followed by an interview.

Entrance test

The entrance test has two sections: A and B. Section A includes General Knowledge, Media Affairs, Logic, Reasoning, and Data Interpretation and Part B tests their English language ability.

Students who qualify in the written test will be called for an interview.

The curriculum is designed to impart a blend of theoretical inputs and practical exposure which creates a firm grounding for students to explore academics or media as career options.
The two-year course is divided into four semesters leading to an M.A.JMC. The total number of credits to be earned over a period of two years is 80, of which 60 credits (50 Core and 10 Elective) have to be earned from the Journalism and Mass Communication program, and 20 free credits from various other Departments/Schools including the parent ‘Department of Communication’ in the University.

report and Certificate in the Department for the award of the M.A. JMC degree. It is mandatory for the M.A. JMC students to build the bridge between the institution and the media industry.

Internship period must be at least of one month duration.

The Semester-wise list of Core and Optional courses is listed below. As mentioned before, there may be minor modifications in the optional courses as this is an indicative list. The actual courses on offer will be notified before the commencement of the registration process at the beginning of each semester.

Evaluation of each course consists of internal assessment and semester-end examinations in the ratio of 40:60 for theory oriented and 50:50 for practical courses. Assessment patterns can range from term papers, presentations, projects/production and seminars to sit-down examinations and open-book examinations.
M.A.C.L
Computational Linguistics (Specialized)
M.A. COMPUTATIONAL LINGUISTICS

In the past two decades, research in Computational Linguistics has seen remarkable growth, both in terms of coverage of the many languages in India, and advancement in scientific practice. Routinely, research on Natural Language Processing (NLP) is being conducted within the academic laboratories and industry funded research initiatives; the majority of researchers coming to NLP research are from both linguistics and computer sciences. Within the computer sciences, NLP has remained a field where advances from theoretical and experimental linguistics have not managed to effect changes in the tools and techniques developed to tackle theoretical and practical challenges. Within linguistics proper, in a similar vein, basic computer science approaches to NLP have not managed to enter the mainstream. Through the offering of several basic and advanced courses, the M.A. in Computational Linguistics will allow us to bridge this gap and offer courses that will integrate computer science and linguistic-theoretical approaches to NLP.
About M.A. C.L.

The Master of Computational Linguistics (M.A. CL) aims to prepare students for challenging careers in industrial and research centres such as human speech recognition and synthesis, extracting and mining information available online, Internet search engine technologies, or developing educational applications. M.A.CL is a two-year postgraduate programme with four semesters. A total of 80 credits have to be earned by the end of four semesters, with a minimum of 20 credits to be earned by the end of each semester. All the courses on offer are divided into three separate modules:

A. Computational logic and programming: Within this module students will familiarize themselves with basic concepts relevant for understanding formal logic along with an introduction to practical programming with languages such as Perl, Prolog, Python, and basic shell and scripting languages. Over the course of two years (four academic semesters) students will complete 20 credit hours of courses within this module.
B. Theoretical linguistics: Within this module students will enroll in courses dealing with basic and advanced issues in each of the following areas: Phonology, Morphology, Syntax, and Semantics. Over the course of two years (four academic semesters) students will complete 20 credit hours of courses within this module.

C. NLP and applications: Within this module students will enroll in courses dealing with basic and advanced issues in NLP research and applied areas such as information extraction, information retrieval, machine translation, automatic speech recognition, and text-to-speech synthesis. Over the course of two years (four academic semesters) students will complete 30 credit hours of courses within this module.

Successful completion of 70 credit hours of courses from these three modules, 5 credit hours from a course from any of the three modules or from outside the School of Language Sciences, and project work and/or internship of 5 credit hours will result in the award of a Master of Computational Linguistics degree. The table below provides the details on the credit hours in each separate module.
Students will be expected to complete the program within two years (four academic semesters). Seventy-five credit hours of taught courses will be completed within four semesters. In addition, at the end of the fourth semester, students will complete 5 credit hours of project work or an internship. A faculty advisor will help the student complete a project according to schedule, and provide both intellectual and academic support.

Entrance test

The entrance test has four sections, A-D, that test a student’s verbal and reasoning ability.

M.A. Linguistics (Specialized)
M.A. LINGUISTICS

The main aim of this programme is to provide students a thorough grounding in modern, theoretical linguistics. Students gain a basic understanding of the major core areas of linguistics: phonetics and phonology; syntax; and semantics and pragmatics, and also applied areas like language acquisition, psycholinguistics, sociolinguistics, neurolinguistics, computational linguistics, etc.

A student registered for the M.A Linguistics programme will be required to do 16 courses in all. Each course will fetch him/her 5 credits. Of these,

10 shall be Core Courses.

4 shall be Electives/Optional Courses (from Linguistics and English Language Education)

2 shall be Electives/Optional courses (from elsewhere, i.e. Language Teaching, Literature, etc.)
Entrance Test

The Entrance Test for admission in this programme has three sections:

Section A: English Language Ability
Section B: Analytical Skills

M.A. English Literature (Specialized)
M.A. ENGLISH LITERATURE

The M.A. in English Literature is perhaps one of the most traditional and recognizable degrees in higher education, and it is one of the oldest at the English and Foreign Languages University. The English Literature Programme here presents an exciting combination of traditional offerings and radical new pathways of enquiry that have made this degree among the most sought-after English degrees in the country. The variety of careers and intellectual trajectories that our students have pursued is a testament to the strengths and felicities of the programme. As a discipline, English is not just a Beowulf-to-Virginia-Woolf kind of literary survey enterprise. We understand it in a much broader and flatter sense as including the study of literary texts, yes, but also of the many textualities that form the textures and contextures of our life in the discursive paradigms of the world and its many histories. So our surveys too are intensely historicised with respect to the contexts and concerns of our own times: our Shakespeare course might very well include a Bollywood adaptation, for example, not just the Renaissance text.
The core requirements for M.A. English Literature

1. English Literature and Its Contexts, 1485-1660
2. English Literature and Its Contexts, 1660-1760
3. English Literature and Its Contexts, 1760-1832
4. English Literature and Its Contexts, 1832-1901
5. English Literature and Its Contexts, 1901-1945
6. English Literature and Its Contexts, 1945-The Present
7. Shakespeare
8. Literary Theory and Criticism
9. Literatures of Modern India
10. Re-thinking Humanities/Critical Humanities

Comparative Literature has been reinventing itself time and again by incorporating new approaches, models of comparison and methods of inquiry. The discipline has actively amalgamated within its mould, various literary transformations and new knowledge paradigms, thereby expanding the horizons of conventional understanding of literary investigation. Both in the West and in India, the discipline has given rise to several deliberations concerning the literary object and its modes of inspection. The French, the Germans, the Americans, and the Russians have their own models for investigating literary comparisons and their incumbent cultural formations. Comparatists in India have foregrounded the notion of “Comparative Indian Literature” with a view to developing a new approach to comparative studies and to contextualize the discipline in the Indian scenario. However, certain pertinent questions have received very little attention such as: How could one undertake comparative inquiry keeping in mind the plethora of literary traditions that have emerged from India since time immemorial? How are we to comprehend the Kavya traditions within India and the generic literatures of the West? Is it possible to ‘conceptualize’ the Indian literary and performative traditions by adopting a comparative method? At what points of convergence do Indian literary traditions invite a productive comparison with the West?

The Department of Comparative Literature and India Studies at the EFLU finds itself privileged in terms of critically investigating the issues mentioned above. The two units in the Department (one its kind in the country), are in a position not merely to examine the mutually illuminating ‘literary morphemes’ from India, but also by way of comparison, understand the multifarious ways in which they are received, adopted, negotiated, and amalgamated. An investigation of the typological affinities and the migratory nature of literary motifs within India would be of paramount significance for the Department. With a productive collaboration with foreign languages and literature Departments of the University, the Department aims to offer an M.A. programme that focuses on imparting knowledge on “inter-comparativism” and “intra-comparativism” of Indian literary and performative traditions. Not only will such an approach be innovative and dynamic, but it would also strengthen the India Studies component. Such an academic exercise will equip the student to comprehend the operative dynamics of Indological inquiries and to decipher the correlative parallelisms and missing connections amongst the constellations of literary practices emanating from India.

Choice-Based Credit System:

As per the guidelines, the course structure is divided into Core Courses and Electives. A student has to earn not less than eighty credits in four semesters to qualify for a postgraduate degree in Comparative Literature and India Studies. Among the eighty credits, fifty should be from the Core Courses (compulsory courses) from the Department. Twenty credits should be from the Elective Courses from the School of Literary Studies, and ten from courses from other departments of the University (from outside the School). Considering the fact that each course carries five credits, a student should successfully complete a minimum of sixteen courses.

M.A. Literatures in English (Specialized)
M.A. LITERATURES IN ENGLISH

This programme, besides being a survey and introductory programme, is aimed at widening the scope of the study of literatures in English. It provides an opportunity to study canonical English literature covering a time period of more than a thousand years of literary production from the timeless Anglo-Saxon poetry, through the Renaissance, Restoration, Romantic, and Victorian eras to the very turbulent yet boisterous twentieth century. The objective of the programme is to study the canonical, the colonial and the postcolonial cultures and periods together to deal with the question of conceptualizing literary texts in a global frame that forms the basis for World literatures in English which encompass the histories, hopes, conflicts and convergences of the globalized era. As such, this programme envisages productive possibilities of involving foreign language departments and the exploration of the links between traditional English literature and the postcolonial global literatures.
This programme is designed to cater to the evolving needs of the literary and cultural researchers in the aftermath of i) the dramatic expansion of the social context and comparative evidentiary matter of literary studies beyond a highly selective tradition of canonical works leading to the waning distinction between “literary” and sub- or para- literary, ii)) postcolonialism with its ever changing dimensions and agendas, and iii) the irreversible journey of mankind into the digital era.

The programme serves a dual purpose. On the one hand it is designed to benefit students who wish to earn an autonomous degree in advanced studies in Literatures in English, and on the other hand it also forms a solid foundation for doctoral research.

M.A. ELT
English Language Teaching (Specialized)
M.A. ENGLISH LANGUAGE TEACHING

A specialized M.A. English Language Teaching programme is offered to cover a number of important areas of current theory and practice in teaching of English as a second/foreign language. It is aimed to advance knowledge in some of the prominent techniques and approaches to ELT, basics of language curriculum, syllabus and materials, and principles of assessment and evaluation. It also intends to give participants hands-on practice in the teaching of skills and elements, train them to analyze learner language to understand the stages of interlanguage development, and develop materials and assessments in line with the theories of syllabus and test design. It will help participants to update knowledge through classroom discussions, one-day seminars, practice teaching, and research to apply the current theories of teaching and learning to the classroom context.

Choice-Based Credit System (UGC mandated)
Duration: 2 years (4 semesters: January-April; August-November)

Credits: 80
A student registered for the M.A ELT programme will be required to do 16 courses in all. Each course will fetch him/her 5 credits. Of these,

10 shall be Core Courses.

4 shall be Electives (from English Language Education)

2 shall be Electives (from elsewhere, i.e., Linguistics, Literature, etc.)
The core and electives will cover four broad areas of study under ELT.

Four Areas of study

Area 1: English in India

Area 2: Perspectives on teaching/learning English as a Second Language

Area 3: The Second Language Classroom

Area 4: ELT Research

M.A. FRENCH

The Department of French and Francophone Studies in the School of European Languages offers a general M.A. French programme with courses in the following areas:

- Linguistics and French Language Teaching
- French Literature
- French Francophone Studies
- French Translation

General Structure:

The M.A. in French consists of fifteen courses spread over four semesters, excluding a project in the final semester. Out of these fifteen courses, a student has to take eight courses which have been identified by the School as core courses during the first two semesters of the Programme. The other seven courses are elective, i.e. a student has to choose from the courses offered during the third and fourth semesters. A student can choose a maximum of four optional courses in the third semester and a maximum of three optional courses in the fourth semester.

1. Core Areas

   Six core areas have been identified:

   1. Linguistics
   2. Literature
   3. Francophone Studies
   4. Translation
   5. Teaching French as a Foreign Language
   6. Culture and Civilization
2. Credit Distribution Pattern:

The credit distribution pattern for all M.As is as follows:

For M.A. Core: 40 Credits = 5 X 8 core courses (Gen.)

Optional: 30 Credits have to be earned from across the core areas

05 Credits can be earned across the departments in the School of French Studies or elsewhere in the University.

Project: 05 Credits (in any one of the core areas mentioned above)

Each course (core as well as optional) will carry 5 credits.

Credit Break-up and Course Stipulations for all M.A. Degrees

All M.A. degrees count for 80 credits. Of these, there are stipulations for 75 credits according to the degree the students wish to opt for. 05 credits are free and can be taken from any area. The project has to be done only in Semester IV and must be from the area of specialization in which the degree is to be awarded. Those who opt for M.A. French without specialization should choose any one of the core areas for their project.

05 credits: project in the area of specialization

ATTENDANCE

Attendance requirement
A student shall be required to attend at least 75% of the classes actually held in each subject and such seminars, sessionals and practicals as may be prescribed to the satisfaction of the teachers/tutors concerned. No student shall be permitted to sit for the End-semester examination in the course in which he/she has secured less than 75% attendance.
EVALUATION

The performance of a student on the programme will be on the basis of (i) continuous assessment, and (ii) semester-end examinations. The ratio of continuous assessment to semester-end examinations will be 40:60.

Continuous assessment may comprise class tests, assignments, presentations or response papers. There shall be a minimum of three continuous assessment events. The best two out of these three will be considered for the final grade. No student shall be permitted to sit for the semester-end examination in a course for which she/he has received a fail grade (Grade F) in the internal assessment. Those who fail in the internal assessment shall be required to repeat the course as an ex-student.
Semester-end assessment may comprise sit-down/open book/take home examination, or term paper or long assignment/project at the discretion of the teacher concerned.

The credit system is followed for all M.A. programmes. For evaluating a student’s performance, the following 8-point grading scale will be used:

O  A+  A  B+  B  C  D  F
PROMOTION

Promotion to the next Semester

a) For promotion to the next semester, a student should not have a backlog* of more than two Courses/papers at the beginning of any given semester.

b) Students who have more than two backlogs shall be required to clear backlogs as an ex-student in the maximum permissible period as under:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Programme</th>
<th>Maximum Permissible Period in semesters (from the date of admission)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>General / OBC / all others</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Post-graduate</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
d) In all the above cases, ex-students shall cease to be eligible for hostel accommodation, stipend, book allowance, and library facilities beyond their regular stipulated period of admission to the programme.

* Backlogs may arise in the following cases:

i. when a student has a shortfall of attendance and is therefore not permitted to take the semester-end examination

ii. when a student fails in both the semester-end examination and the supplementary examination(s) in the same course.

iii. when a student gets an overall F Grade (Fail Grade) in the Internal Assessment and is therefore not permitted to take the semester end examination.
SUPPLEMENTARY/GRADE IMPROVEMENT EXAMINATION

Supplementary/ Grade Improvement Examination

Students who score grade B or lower, and are desirous of improving their grades in any module/course may take a Grade Improvement/Repeat Examination.

Such an examination is allowed only once for each module/course and shall be conducted along with the Supplementary examinations. However SC/ST students shall be given one extra chance subject to the same rule. Only those students who fulfill the attendance, discipline, and academic requirements of the programme shall be allowed to exercise the option of Grade Improvement/Repeat examination.

Students are required to apply to the Controller of Examinations through the Chairperson concerned, BoS, within seven days of commencement of the following semester or declaration of results whichever is later for Grade Improvement/Repeat examination paying a fee of Rs.100/- subject to revision from time to time for each paper.
RULES OF DISCIPLINE AND PROPER CONDUCT

The rules listed here shall apply to all students of the University under Article 29 of the Statutes of the EFL University. Any breach of discipline and conduct committed by a student inside or outside the EFL University Campus shall fall under the purview of these rules.

Categories of misconduct and indiscipline

- All acts of violence and forms of coercion such as gheraos, dharnas, sit-ins which disrupt the normal academic and administrative functioning of the University
- Sexual harassment
- Committing forgery, defacing/destroying books/journals of the library, etc.
- Furnishing false certificates or false information
- Eve-teasing or disrespectful behaviour with a girl student
- Arousing communal, caste, or regional feelings or disharmony among students
• Use of abusive, defamatory, derogatory language
• Pasting of posters of an objectionable nature
• Unauthorized occupation of the hostel room/s
• Indulging in acts of gambling

PUNISHMENT

The Competent Authority may impose punishment on any student found guilty of any of the acts of indiscipline or misconduct mentioned above.

Anti-Ragging Committee

Any form of ragging within the premises of the EFL University will be viewed seriously and dealt with swiftly and severely by the Administration (vide Ordinance 6.2, entitled “Prohibition of and Punishment for Ragging” of the English and Foreign Languages University). Anti-ragging squads and an Anti-Ragging Committee will be empowered to take suo moto action or upon receiving a complaint. As per the directions of the Supreme Court of India, “if any incident of ragging comes to the notice of the authority, the concerned student shall be given liberty to explain and if his explanation is not found satisfactory, the authority would expel him from the University.”
Anti-Sexual Harassment and Redressal Mechanism

The EFL University has evolved a policy against sexual harassment to create for women students on its Campuses for a gender-just and secure environment. (vide Ordinance 7.2, Annexure-I, entitled “Sexual Harassment” of the English and Foreign Languages University). Every Campus of the EFL University has a Complaints Committee, with representatives from all sections of the University, to take care of the complaints of women students in this regard, with the names, addresses and phone numbers of the Committee members displayed in all prominent places in the Campus. The complaints will be kept confidential and the Committee has the power to recommend severe action(s) against the perpetrators. The Committee also takes upon itself the task of organizing various gender sensitization programmes. There is also an Appellate Committee to consider problems when the Complaints Committee’s decisions are not found satisfactory.
Removal of Students from the Courses

The Dean of the School/Proctor, Dean, Student’s Welfare, the Dean (Research) may recommend to the Vice Chancellor the removal of a student from a Programme/Course on grounds of unsatisfactory academic performance and/or misconduct (as defined in the Regulations)/or non-payment of fees on time.
GRIEVANCE REDRESSAL MECHANISM

All grievances within the University will be resolved through discussions and negotiations and through a Grievance-Redressal mechanism. The following are some of them:

- Grievances with regard to the Hostels may be referred to the Provost/Warden concerned
- Individual grievances may be referred to teachers in each Department who will be appointed staff advisers.
- Group grievances may be resolved within the Department.
- Miscellaneous grievances pertaining to the Library/Finance/Sports, etc, will be resolved by the Committee concerned.
- Academic grievances of students: Students aggrieved due to the grade awarded in a course may apply in a prescribed form along with a fee of Rs. 100/- for each course to the Head of the Department giving reasons for his/her feeling aggrieved within one month of the notification of the results. A Committee will examine the case and the grade awarded by the Committee upon review will be final. All grievances should be submitted to the appropriate body within two weeks after the event at issue.
